Transition Year

The Transition Year is a one-year educational programme available to students who have completed their Junior Cycle education. It aims to help young people to make the transition to senior cycle and beyond. It is a broadly based programme which includes traditional academic subjects, careers education, work experience and social development. It helps students consider their own aptitudes and abilities and to reflect on their future educational and work choices in a year free from the pressures of examinations.

Aims:

- To get students more involved in what they learn in school;
- Enable students to take a greater responsibility for their own learning and decision making;
- To give students a wide range of experiences and skills in education;
